Herbalox[®] Rosemary Extracts

The longer your sausages can remain fresh in your deli shelf, the more valuable it is for a retailer. Food manufacturers are always looking for new ways to extend the shelf life of their products. Revolutionary rosemary-based Herbalox[®] established the standard for natural oxidation-inhibiting products, creating the foundation for an array of leading-edge, label-sensitive antioxidant solutions.

Herbalox[®] Rosemary Extract is a specially formulated natural antioxidant with excellent miscibility in cold brines for a clear, injectable solution to oxidation. Super-chilled water temperatures and competition among dry ingredients for available water often prevent complete solubility of functional ingredients. Incomplete solubility can cause processing difficulties, such as clogged injection needles or filters.

Herbalox[®] Rosemary Extracts provide a more consumer-friendly label than synthetic antioxidants by being approved for use in food as a Natural Flavor, Natural Flavoring, Rosemary Extract or Antioxidant. Common synthetic antioxidants include Tertiary butyl hydroquinone (TBHQ), Butylated hydroxytoluene (BHT), Butylated hydroxyanisole (BHA), and Ethylene diamine tetra acetic acid (EDTA).
